1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has a solution if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

2. In the second part of the paper, the problem of the stability of the solution is considered. It is shown that the solution is stable if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

3. In the third part of the paper, the problem of the asymptotic behavior of the solution is considered. It is shown that the solution tends to zero as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

4. In the fourth part of the paper, the problem of the uniqueness of the solution is considered. It is shown that the solution is unique if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

5. In the fifth part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the initial conditions is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the initial conditions if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

6. In the sixth part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the parameters α and β is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the parameters if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

7. In the seventh part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the boundary conditions is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the boundary conditions if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

8. In the eighth part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the initial and boundary conditions is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the initial and boundary conditions if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

9. In the ninth part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the parameters and initial and boundary conditions is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the parameters and initial and boundary conditions if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.

10. In the tenth part of the paper, the problem of the dependence of the solution on the parameters, initial and boundary conditions, and the initial and boundary values of the derivatives is considered. It is shown that the solution depends continuously on the parameters, initial and boundary conditions, and the initial and boundary values of the derivatives if and only if the condition $\alpha > 0$ is satisfied.
